

Speaker Bios - SIAS Talk: New ways to approach the greatest challenges (26th February 2026)

Colin Wilson has had a varied actuarial career, starting in life insurance and investment before moving into wider risk management and government. He was UK Deputy Government Actuary from 2012 to 2022 and served as President of the IFoA from 2016 to 2017.

Matthew Edwards is an actuary whose career has covered life insurance, non-life pricing and pensions, including several years overseas. His focus has been demographic risk and predictive analytics. He is a former editor of The Actuary magazine, chair of the Continuous Mortality Investigation (CMI), and co-chair/founder of the COVID-19 Actuaries Response Group. He is currently on IFoA Council.

Dermot Grenham is a qualified actuary with over 30 years of professional experience. In addition to his mainstream actuarial work he has also lectured in demography at the London School of Economics.

Craig Turnbull is the author of the book A History of British Actuarial Thought, a past winner of the IFoA Peter Clark prize and one of the recipients of the IFoA Frank Redington prize. He has served on the IFoA Research and Thought Leadership Board and on a number of IFoA working parties and is a former member of the Bank of England Research Steering Committee. He is a partner at Barnett Waddingham, the actuarial consulting firm.
